

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910457014003321
Autore	Grau Marion
Titolo	Rethinking mission in the postcolony : salvation, society and subversion / Marion Grau
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London ; New York, : T&T Clark, 2011
ISBN	1-4725-5000-5 1-283-12954-X 9786613129543 0-567-47015-6
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (305 p.)
Disciplina	266.001
Soggetti	Missions - Theory Missionaries
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	"A Continuum imprint."--Title page verso
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index
Nota di contenuto	Prologue: Point of (no) return -- Reaching the limit : circumambulating the frontiers of civilizing mission -- Departures : traversing methodically -- Waymarkers : pattern recognition along the way -- Itinerary I : converting Rome's successors -- Itinerary II : going south : the Zulu, the Colensos, and the hermeneutics of salvation -- Itinerary III : regifting the theological present : economies of exchange between Maori and Anglicans -- In transit -- Holding patterns -- Aporias : no way out Prologue -- Chapter 1 - Reaching the Limit: Circumambulating the Frontiers of Civilizing Mission -- Chapter 2 - Departures: Traversing Methodically -- Chapter 3 - Waymarkers: Pattern Recognition Along the Way -- Chapter 4 - Itinerary I: Converting Rome's Successors -- Chapter 5 - Itinerary II: Going South: Zulus, Bishop Colenso, Hermeneutics and Salvations -- Chapter 6 - Itinerary III: Regifting the Theological Present: Economies of the Exchange between Maori and Anglicans -- Chapter 7 - In Transit -- Chapter 8 - Holding Patterns -- Chapter 9 - Aporias
Sommario/riassunto	Much of the history of mission has been interlaced with imperial structures. Often the colonial and economic impulses of the colonial powers overshadow some of the counterimperial tendencies of biblical texts and ecclesial communities. Evangelical missionary theologies have led to cultural genocide. These missionary practices have been heavily critiqued in the last few decades. Christian progressives have been in the forefront of the critique of mission, but have often responded in ways that reject the mission of the word, instead highlighting a mission focused on developmental concerns that o
