

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910457133903321
Autore	Kikuchi George <1980->
Titolo	Neighborhood structures and crime [[electronic resource]] : a spatial analysis // George Kikuchi
Pubbl/distr/stampa	El Paso, : LFB Scholarly Pub. LLC, c2010
ISBN	1-59332-557-6
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (214 p.)
Collana	Criminal justice: recent scholarship
Disciplina	364.2/2
Soggetti	Criminal statistics Neighborhoods Crime analysis Spatial analysis (Statistics) Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 181-196) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction -- Longitudinal analysis of crime rates at the neighborhood level -- An analysis of spatially varying associations between neighborhood characteristics and crime -- A spatial analysis of criminal offenders' target selection -- Conclusion.
Sommario/riassunto	Thinking in spatial terms is essential in understanding crime and criminal behavior. By integrating newly developed statistical methods from interdisciplinary fields with social disorganization theory and routine activities theory, Kikuchi examines the spatial and temporal dynamics of crime at the neighborhood level. Statistical analyses consistently indicate that neighborhood characteristics are important predictors of the spatial distribution of crime, longitudinal trends of crime, and even criminal offenders' target selection. Kikuchi endeavors to uncover the mechanism of how neighborhood c