

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910457487703321
Autore	Lang Andrew
Titolo	World trade law after neoliberalism : re-imagining the global economic order // Andrew Lang
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Oxford, England : , : Oxford University Press, , 2011 ©2011
ISBN	0-19-173139-0 0-19-165614-3
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (416 p.)
Disciplina	343.07
Soggetti	Foreign trade regulation - Political aspects Free trade - Political aspects International economic relations - Political aspects Neoliberalism Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	dkdk 1 Introduction -- Part I Regime Encounters: Trade And Human Rights -- 2 'Trade and Human Rights' in Historical Perspective -- 3 The Global Justice Movement -- 4 Inter-Regime Contestation -- 5 The Limits of Coherence -- Part II The Trade Regime And The Neoliberal Turn -- 6 Against Objectivism -- 7 Embedded Liberalism and Purposive Law -- 8 Neoliberalism and the Formal-Technical Turn -- 9 Trade in Services -- Part III Conclusion -- 10 Conclusion: After Neoliberalism?
Sommario/riassunto	It is often argued that there is an inherent tension between human rights law and the rules of free trade. This book explores the assumptions underlying this debate and argues that we need to reconsider them, focusing more on how expert knowledge and informal relationships shape trade law and its interaction with human rights.