1.	Record Nr.	UNINA9910457571103321
	Autore	MacFarlane S. Neil
	Titolo	Human security and the UN [[electronic resource]] : a critical history / / S. Neil MacFarlane and Yuen Foong Khong
	Pubbl/distr/stampa	Bloomington, : Indiana University Press, c2006
	ISBN	9786612072833
		1-282-07283-8
		0-253-11199-4
	Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (369 p.)
	Collana	United Nations intellectual history project
	Altri autori (Persone)	KhongYuen Foong <1956->
	Disciplina	341.7/2
	Soggetti	Security, International
		Human rights - International cooperation
		National security - International cooperation
		Internal security - International cooperation
		Economic security - International cooperation
		Security (Psychology) - International cooperation
		Electronic books.
	Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
	Formato	Materiale a stampa
	Livello bibliografico	Monografia
	Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
	Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 271-323) and index.
	Nota di contenuto	Introduction -- The prehistory of human security -- The UN and human security during the cold war -- The evolving critique of national security -- The UN and human security : the development dimension -- The UN and human security : the protection dimension -- Human security and the protection of vulnerable groups -- Human security and the UN : a critique.
	Sommario/riassunto	How did the individual human being become the focus of the contemporary discourse on security? What was the role of the United Nations in ""securing"" the individual? What are the payoffs and costs of this extension of the concept? Neil MacFarlane and Yuen Foong Khong tackle these questions by analyzing historical and contemporary debates about what is to be secured. From Westphalia through the 19th century, the state's claim to be the object of security was sustainable because it offered its subjects