Record Nr. UNINA9910457825103321 Autore Murray Williamson Titolo War, strategy, and military effectiveness / / Williamson Murray [[electronic resource]] Cambridge: ,: Cambridge University Press, , 2011 Pubbl/distr/stampa ISBN 1-107-22052-1 1-139-12471-4 1-283-29616-0 1-139-12321-1 9786613296160 1-139-11746-7 1-139-12812-4 1-139-11310-0 0-511-99625-X 1-139-11529-4 Descrizione fisica 1 online resource (vii, 332 pages) : digital, PDF file(s) Disciplina 355.02 Soggetti Military art and science - History War Strategy Military policy Military readiness International relations Lingua di pubblicazione Inglese Formato Materiale a stampa Livello bibliografico Monografia Title from publisher's bibliographic system (viewed on 05 Oct 2015). Note generali Nota di bibliografia Includes bibliographical references and index. Nota di contenuto 1. History and the future -- 2. Thucydides and Clausewitz -- 3. Clausewitz out, computers in: military culture and technological hubris -- 4. Changing the principles of war? -- 5. Military culture does matter -- 6. History and strategic planning -- 7. Thoughts on red teaming --8. The distant framework of war -- 9. The problem of German military effectiveness, 1900-1945 -- 10. Reflections on the combined bomber offensive -- 11. The air war in the Gulf -- 12. Thoughts on British intellgence in World War II and the implications for intelligence in the Twenty-first century -- 13. The meaning of World War II.

Sommario/riassunto

This collection of articles represents Professor Williamson Murray's efforts to elucidate the role that history should play in thinking about both the present and the future. They reflect three disparate themes in Professor Murray's work: his deep fascination with history and those who have acted in the past; his fascination with the similarities in human behavior between the past and the present; and his belief that the study of military and strategic history can be of real use to those who will confront the daunting problems of war and peace in the twenty-first century. The first group of essays addresses the relevance of history to an understanding of the present and to an understanding of the possibilities of the future. The second addresses the possible direct uses of history to think through the problems involved in the creation of effective military institutions. The final group represents historical case studies that serve to illuminate the present.