Record Nr. UNINA9910459766403321 Autore Bernath Michael T Titolo Confederate minds [[electronic resource]]: the struggle for intellectual independence in the Civil War South / / Michael T. Bernath Chapel Hill,: University of North Carolina Press, c2010 Pubbl/distr/stampa 1-4696-0395-0 ISBN 0-8078-9565-2 Descrizione fisica 1 online resource (429 p.) Collana Civil War America Disciplina 973.7/13 American literature - Southern States - History and criticism Soggetti Regionalism - Southern States - History - 19th century Group identity - Southern States - History - 19th century Electronic books. Southern States Intellectual life 19th century Confederate States of America Intellectual life Southern States Civilization 19th century United States History Civil War, 1861-1865 Social aspects Lingua di pubblicazione Inglese Formato Materiale a stampa Livello bibliografico Monografia Note generali Description based upon print version of record. Includes bibliographical references and index. Nota di bibliografia An intellectual call to arms -- The Confederate critique of northern Nota di contenuto culture -- The birth of Confederate literature -- The campaign for Confederate educational independence -- The high-water mark --Searching for a Confederate "literature of power" -- Are we a highly civilized people? -- Conclusion: independent in nothing, neutral in everything. During the Civil War, Confederates fought for much more than their Sommario/riassunto political independence. They also fought to prove the distinctiveness of the Southern people and to legitimate their desire for a separate national existence through the creation of a uniquely Southern literature and culture. In this important new book, Michael Bernath follows the activities of a group of Southern writers, thinkers, editors, publishers, educators, and ministers--whom he labels Confederate cultural nationalists--in order to trace the rise and fall of a cultural movement dedicated to liberating the South from its