

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910460014203321
Autore	Apostolidis Paul <1965->
Titolo	Breaks in the chain [[electronic resource] ] : what immigrant workers can teach America about democracy // Paul Apostolidis
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Minneapolis, : University of Minnesota Press, c2010
ISBN	0-8166-7484-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (340 p.)
Disciplina	323.3/29120973
Soggetti	Foreign workers - United States - Attitudes Foreign workers - Political activity - United States Electronic books. United States Emigration and immigration Political aspects
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Immigration, power, and politics in America today -- Political narratives, common sense, and theories of hegemony -- Hegemony in hindsight : immigrant workers' stories of power in Mexico -- Stories of fate and agency in the zone of illegality -- Labor, injury, and self-preservation in the slaughterhouse -- Nosotros somos la union! immigrant worker organizing and the disciplines of the law -- Immigrant workers and counterhegemony.
Sommario/riassunto	In Breaks in the Chain , Paul Apostolidis investigates the personal life stories of a group of Mexican immigrant meatpackers who are at once typical and extraordinary. After crossing the border clandestinely and navigating the treacherous world of the undocumented, they waged a campaign to democratize their union and their workplace in the most hazardous industry in the United States. Breaks in the Chain shows how immigrant workers-individually and sometimes collectively-both reinforce and contest a tacit but lethal form of biopolitics that differentiates the life chances of racial groups. Exa