

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910460628503321
Autore	Bowen Sarah <1978->
Titolo	Divided spirits : tequila, mezcal, and the politics of production // Sarah Bowen
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Oakland, California : , : University of California Press, , 2015 ©2015
ISBN	0-520-96258-3
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (281 p.)
Collana	California Studies in Food and Culture ; ; 56
Disciplina	338.4/76635
Soggetti	Mescal Mescal industry Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Front matter -- Contents -- List of Illustrations -- Acknowledgments -- Abbreviations -- Maps -- 1. The Promise of Place -- 2. From the Fields to Your Glass -- 3. Whose Rules Rule? Creating and Defining Tequila Quality -- 4. The Heart of the Agave: Farming in Tequila Country -- 5. Making Mezcal in the Shadow of the Denomination of Origin -- 6. Hipsters, Hope, and the Future of Artisanal Mezcal -- 7. Looking Forward -- Methodological Appendix -- Notes -- Works Cited -- Index
Sommario/riassunto	Divided Spirits tells the stories of tequila and mezcal, two of Mexico's most iconic products. In doing so, the book illustrates how neoliberalism influences the production, branding, and regulation of local foods and drinks. It also challenges the strategy of relying on "alternative" markets to protect food cultures and rural livelihoods. In recent years, as consumers increasingly demand to connect with the people and places that produce their food, the concept of terroir-the taste of place-has become more and more prominent. Tequila and mezcal are both protected by denominations of origin (DOs), legal designations that aim to guarantee a product's authenticity based on its link to terroir. Advocates argue that the DOs expand market opportunities, protect cultural heritage, and ensure the reputation of Mexico's national spirits. Yet this book shows how the institutions that are supposed to guard "the legacy of all Mexicans" often fail those who are most in need of protection: the small producers, agave farmers, and other workers who have been making tequila and mezcal for generations. The consequences-for the quality and taste of tequila and mezcal, and for communities throughout Mexico-are stark. Divided Spirits suggests that we must move beyond market-based models if we want to safeguard local products and the people who make them. Instead, we need systems of production, consumption, and oversight that are more democratic, more inclusive, and more participatory. Lasting change is unlikely without the involvement of the state and a sustained commitment to addressing inequality and supporting rural development.

---