

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910462317303321
Autore	Cumbers Andrew
Titolo	Reclaiming public ownership [[electronic resource]] : making space for economic democracy // Andrew Cumbers
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London ; ; New York, : Zen Books, 2012
ISBN	1-78032-370-0 1-283-60948-7 9786613921932 1-78032-008-6
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (211 p.)
Disciplina	338.9
Soggetti	Government ownership - Great Britain International economic relations Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Cover; About the author; Title; Copyright; Contents; Tables and figures; Acknowledgements; Introduction: an unexpected guest - the return of public ownership; Part One Public ownership and its discontents; 1 Public ownership as state ownership: the post-1945 legacy; 2 The neoliberal onslaught and the politics of privatization; 3 Coming to terms with Hayek: markets, planning and economic democracy; Part Two The return of public ownership; 4 Financial crisis and the rediscovery of the state in the neoliberal heartland; 5 Public ownership and an alternative political economy in Latin America 6 Alternative globalizations and the discourse of the commons Part Three Remaking public ownership; 7 Remaking and rescaling public ownership; 8 State ownership, deliberative democracy and elite interests in Norway's oil bonanza; 9 Decentred public ownership and the Danish wind power revolution; Conclusion; Notes; Bibliography; Index
Sommario/riassunto	As the environmental limits and socially destructive tendencies of the current profit-driven economic model become daily more self-evident, Cumbers argues that a reconstituted public ownership is central to the creation of a more just and sustainable society.
