

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910463722503321
Autore	Ramirez Cristina Devereaux <1971->
Titolo	Occupying our space : the mestiza rhetorics of Mexican women journalists and activists, 1875-1942 // Cristina Devereaux Ramirez ; with translations by Joel Bollinger Pouwels and Neil J. Devereaux ; foreword by Jacqueline Jones Royster
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Tucson, [Arizona] : , : The University of Arizona Press, , 2015 ©2015
ISBN	0-8165-0203-X
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (273 p.)
Disciplina	079.72/082
Soggetti	Women journalists - Mexico Women in journalism - Mexico - History - 19th century Women in journalism - Mexico - History - 20th century Feminism in literature Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction. A feminist recovery project : Mexican women journalists at the forefront of change -- Chapter 1. Historical and theoretical directions in mestiza rhetoric -- Chapter 2. Las hijas del Anahuac : Laureana Wright de Kleinhans and other pioneering women in journalism in the late nineteenth century ; "Saludo" y "prospecto" = Welcome and prospectus, 1887 -- Chapter 3. "Hear us!" : the feminist protests of las mujeres de Zitacuaro ; Manifesto by las mujeres de Zitacuaro, 1900 -- Chapter 4. Ropiendo Barreras : Juana Belen Gutierrez de Mendoza's revolutionary rhetoric ; Vesper siempre ocupara su puesto = Vesper will always occupy its space -- Chapter 5. Mi grano de arena en esa hermosa labor : Hermila Galindo's feminationalist rhetoric ; A la mujer Latinoamericana = To the Latin American Woman, 1919 -- Epilogue.
Sommario/riassunto	"Rhetorical impact that pioneering and revolutionary Mexican female journalists had in shaping a new direction for women in Mexico during the late nineteenth and early twentieth century"--Provided by publisher.

---