

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910465019303321
Titolo	Perinatal psychiatry : the legacy of Channi Kumar // edited by Carmine M. Pariante [and five others] ; contributors Kathryn M. Abel [and twenty nine others]
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York : , : Oxford University Press, , 2014 ©2014
ISBN	0-19-191834-2 0-19-166452-9
Edizione	[First edition.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (321 p.)
Collana	Oxford scholarship online
Altri autori (Persone)	AbelKathryn M
Disciplina	155.422
Soggetti	Infants - Development Newborn infants - Psychology Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Includes index.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Cover; Foreword; Contents; Contributors; Section 1 Clinical and epidemiological aspects of perinatal mental disorders; 1 The obstetric outcome of pregnant women with psychotic disorders; Louise M. Howard; 2 The psychoses of childbearing; Ian Brockington; 3 Personal reflections on the early development of the EPDS; John Cox; 4 Psychosocial and psychological interventions for the prevention of postpartum depression: An updated systematic review; Cindy-Lee Dennis and Therese Dowswell; 5 Pregnancy prescribing of psychotropic drugs: Keeping pace in a contemporary landscape; Kathryn M. Abel Section 2 Perinatal psychiatry across the world6 Perinatal depression across the world: Prevalence, risk factors, and detection in primary care; Michael W. O'Hara and Lisa S. Segre; 7 Perceptions of postnatal depression across countries and cultures: From a TransCultural Study of PostNatal Depression (TCS-PND), initiated by Channi Kumar; Nine M. -C. Glangeaud-Freudenthal; 8 Development of the perinatal mental health service in Kyushu Japan: Research and clinical perspective; Keiko Yoshida, Hiroshi Yamashita, and Shigenobu Kanba 9 Maternal depression and child health: The case for integrating maternal mental health in Maternal and Child Health (MCH) Programmes Atif Rahman; Section 3 The effects of perinatal mental disorders on the mother-offspring dyad; 10 Maternal and offspring mental health: From bench to bedside; Susan Pawlby and Deborah Sharp; 11 Mother- and father-to-infant emotional involvement; Barbara Figueiredo; 12 Specificity of effects in the association between maternal postnatal depression and child development: evidence from the Cambridge longitudinal study; Lynne Murray

13 Neurobiological outcomes in the offspring of postnatally depressed mothers: Causes and consequences Sarah L. Halligan; 14 Young motherhood, perinatal depression, and children's development; Cerith S. Waters, Susan Pawlby, Stephanie H. M. van Goozen, and Dale F. Hay; 15 Childhood and adolescent mental health as developmental predictors of the early caregiving of teenage mothers; Alison E. Hipwell; Section 4 Biological aspects of perinatal mental disorders; 16 The intergenerational transmission of stress: psychosocial and biological mechanisms; Carmine M. Pariante
17 Associations between prenatal stress, anxiety and depression and child behavioural and cognitive development. Is it causal? Vivette Glover, Kieran O'Donnell, and Thomas G. O'Connor; 18 Postpartum psychosis- important clues to the aetiology of mood disorders; Ian Jones; 19 The biology of postpartum psychosis: A hypothetical model; Paola Dazzan; Section 5 Safeguarding mothers and children: the ongoing debate; 20 Psychiatric causes of maternal deaths: Lessons from the Confidential Enquiries into Maternal Deaths; Margaret R. Oates; 21 The Children Act 1989: Success or failure
Simonetta Agnello Hornby

Sommario/riassunto

Presenting a comprehensive and multidisciplinary review of the field of perinatal psychiatry, this text brings together the leading researchers to honour the original work of Dr Channi Kumar.
