

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910465045703321
Autore	Du Bois W. E. B (William Edward Burghardt), <1868-1963.>
Titolo	The suppression of the African slave trade to the United States of America, 1638-1870 // W.E.B. Du Bois ; series editor, Henry Louis Gates, Jr. ; introduction by Saidiya Hartman
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York : , : Oxford University Press, , [2007] ©2007
ISBN	0-19-938436-3 0-19-938435-5
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (289 p.)
Collana	Oxford W.E.B. Du Bois
Disciplina	382/.440973
Soggetti	Slavery - United States - History Slave trade - United States - History Slavery - Law and legislation - United States - History Antislavery movements - United States - History Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Originally published: New York ; London : Longmans, Green and Co., 1896. With a new introduction.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	The planting colonies -- The farming colonies -- The trading colonies -- The period of revolution, 1774-1787 -- The federal convention, 1787 -- Toussaint L'Ouverture and anti-slavery effort, 1787-1806 -- The period of attempted suppression, 1807-1825 -- The international status of the slave-trade, 1783-1862 -- The rise of the cotton kingdom, 1820-1850 -- The final crisis, 1850-1870 -- The essentials in the struggle.
Sommario/riassunto	W. E. B. Du Bois was a public intellectual, sociologist, and activist on behalf of the African American community. He profoundly shaped black political culture in the United States through his founding role in the NAACP, as well as internationally through the Pan-African movement. DuBois's sociological and historical research on African-American communities and culture broke ground in many areas, including the history of the post-Civil War Reconstruction period. Du Bois was also a prolific author of novels, autobiographical accounts, innumerable editorials and journalistic pieces, and several
