Sommario/riassunto	American Hybrid Poetics explores the ways in which hybrid poetics-a playful mixing of disparate formal and aesthetic strategies-have been the driving force in the work of a historically and culturally diverse group of women poets who are part of a robust tradition in contesting the dominant cultural order. Amy Moorman Robbins examines the ways in which five poets-Gertrude Stein, Laura Mullen, Alice Notley, Harryette Mullen, and Claudia Rankine-use hybridity as an implicitly political strategy to interrupt mainstream American language, literary genres, and visual culture, and expose the ways in which mass culture in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries has had a powerfully standardizing impact on the collective American imagination. By forcing encounters between incompatible traditions-consumer culture with the avant-garde, low culture forms with experimental poetics, prose poetry with linguistic subversiveness-these poets bring together radically competing ideologies and highlight their implications for lived experience. Robbins argues that it is precisely because these poets have mixed forms that their work has gone largely unnoticed by leading members and critics in experimental poetry circles.

Sommario/riassunto	(An Irish-language title) Powerful, artistic, articulate writing, apt and effective in exploring the type of material in question ... if good short story writing was lagging in recent times this should awaken a crowd from their slumber! - Books Ireland A new world is created here by Micheal O Conghaile, a world which didn't and will never exist - but a world which is, nevertheless, uncannily familiar . . . stress, worry, irrationality and wit abound. Self identity and man's raison d'être explored.
