

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910465520003321
Autore	Jin Zhouying
Titolo	Global technological change [[electronic resource] ] : from hard technology to soft technology // Zhouying Jin ; translated by Kelvin W. Willoughby and Ying Bai
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Bristol, UK ; ; Chicago, USA, : Intellect, 2011
ISBN	1-283-16263-6 9786613162632 1-84150-444-0
Edizione	[2nd ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (368 p.)
Disciplina	338.9
Soggetti	Appropriate technology - Economic aspects Appropriate technology - Social aspects Technological innovations - Economic aspects Technological innovations - Social aspects Technology - Economic aspects Technology - Social aspects Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	"Translated from the second Chinese edition published by Peking University Press in Beijing, July 2010".
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Nota di contenuto	Front Cover; Preliminary Pages; Contents; Preface to the English Edition: Theodore Gordon; Acknowledgements; Introduction; Chapter 1: What is Technology?; Chapter 2: Historical Antecedents of Soft Technology; Chapter 3: Soft Technology and Technological Competitiveness; Chapter 4: Soft Technology and Innovation; Chapter 5: Soft Industries; Chapter 6: Soft Technology and the Fourth Generation of Technology Foresight; Postscript: The Principles for Development in the Twenty-first Century - Harmony, Balance, and Coexistence; About the Author; Bibliography; Back Cover
Sommario/riassunto	This revised and updated second edition of "'Global Technological Change'" reconsiders how we make and use technology in the twenty-first century. With human-centred 'soft technology' driving machine-based 'hard technology' in ever more complex ways, Zhouying Jin provides a much-needed understanding of the human dimension of technological advancement. Through a theoretical framework that incorporates elements of both Eastern and Western philosophy, she offers insight into the dynamic between the two as it relates to a variety of technological innovations. More relevant than ever, Global Techno

---