

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910465527803321
Autore	Rougeau Vincent D. <1963->
Titolo	Christians in the American empire [[electronic resource] ] : faith and citizenship in the New World order // Vincent D. Rougeau
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York, : Oxford University Press, 2008
ISBN	1-282-05353-1 0-19-972007-X 9786612053535
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (248 p.)
Disciplina	261.80973
Soggetti	Christianity - United States - Forecasting Christian sociology Electronic books. United States Moral conditions
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Includes bibliographical references (p. [187]-216) and index.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Old-time religion in a free market empire -- Combining faith and reason in the modern world through Catholic social thought -- Justice, community, and solidarity in the American battle over affirmative action -- Enter the poor: American welfare reform, solidarity, and the capability of human flourishing -- Fear of the other -- Christian cosmopolitans in the American empire.
Sommario/riassunto	What does it mean to be a Christian citizen of the United States today? This book challenges the argument that the United States is a Christian nation, and that the American founding and the American Constitution can be linked to a Christian understanding of the state and society. Vincent Rougeau argues that the United States has become an economic empire of consumer citizens, led by elites who seek to secure American political and economic dominance around the world. Freedom and democracy for the oppressed are the public themes put forward to justify this dominance, but the driving force behi