

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910465567903321
Autore	Garnett George
Titolo	Marsilius of Padua and 'the truth of history' [[electronic resource] /] / George Garnett
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Oxford ; ; New York, : Oxford University Press, 2006
ISBN	1-280-87021-4 0-19-153762-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (234 p.)
Disciplina	261.5
Soggetti	History - Religious aspects Church and state Canon law - History Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. [196]-209) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction -- Providential history from the fall of man to the conversion of Constantine -- Providential history from the reign of Constantine -- Christian providential history : a dialectic of perfection and perversion -- The history of the Holy Roman Empire -- Canon law and the conflict between emperor and pope -- The historian's use of his canon law sources.
Sommario/riassunto	This book presents a radical reinterpretation of the great medieval thinker, Marsilius of Padua. George Garnett's iconoclastic re-reading of Marsilius's work - based on a careful attention to the texts - overturns the widely accepted view of him as a secular political theorist and proponent of republicanism, and re-establishes him in his proper historical context. - ;Marsilius of Padua is conventionally seen as a thinker ahead of his time: the first secular political theorist, and the first post-classical thinker to espouse republicanism. He is presented as a scholastic precursor of the republ