

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910476846903321
Autore	Kane Carolyn L
Titolo	High-Tech Trash : Glitch, Noise, and Aesthetic Failure
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Oakland, : University of California Press, 2019
Descrizione fisica	1 electronic resource (253 p.)
Soggetti	Communication studies
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Sommario/riassunto	High-Tech Trash: Glitch, Noise, and Aesthetic Failure maps an archaeology of failure in a culture seemingly ill-equipped to deal with it. To better understand failure, Kane argues, we must abstract from our subjective, personal disappointments and see them as meaningful symbols of a broader human struggle. By connecting twenty-first century digital aesthetics to critical issues in the history of high-tech, the book elucidates what it means to be an error-prone, fallible human in an age of hyper technology; to fail again and again without recourse to anything but repetition.