

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910480024603321
Autore	Sigford Jane L.
Titolo	Who said school administration would be fun? : coping with a new emotional and social reality // Jane L. Sigford
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Thousand Oaks, California : , : Corwin Press, a SAGE Publications Company, , [2005] ©2005
ISBN	1-4522-3959-2 1-4522-2260-6
Edizione	[Second edition.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (137 p.)
Disciplina	371.200973
Soggetti	School management and organization - United States School administrators - United States Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (pages 120-121) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Why is it so chilly in the teacher's lounge? -- Change isn't a flowchart, it's broccoli -- Positions, like shoes, need to fit -- Learning the new rules of communication -- Maintaining control of time -- Developing your emotional Teflon -- Maybe you should wear a striped shirt : refereeing conflict -- Everything you didn't know about adult learners -- Looking into the mirror of humor -- Power is like love--the more you give away, the more you have -- Leading in the age of accountability -- Becoming a self-assured administrator.
Sommario/riassunto	Learn the unwritten and unspoken rules of school administration in this second edition, which helps new and sitting administrators increase personal and professional fulfillment.