Nota di bibliografia Includes bibliographical references and index. This work pursues Derrida's assertion, in 'The Death Penalty, Volume I'. Sommario/riassunto that 'the modern history of the institution named literature in Europe over the last three or four centuries is contemporary with and indissociable from a contestation of the death penalty.' The main question this text poses is: How does literature contest the death penalty today, particularly in the United States where it remains the last democracy?
