

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910480310103321
Autore	Relations Dept International Monetary Fund. External
Titolo	Finances et Developpement [[electronic resource]]
Pubbl/distr/stampa	International Monetary Fund, 2010
ISBN	1-4552-8487-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (247 p.)
Collana	Finance & Development ; ; v.Volume 46, No. 4
Soggetti	Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Francese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di contenuto	Cover Page -- Title Page -- Copyright Page -- Contents -- Paroles d'economistes -- Une politique climatique pour des temps difficiles -- Un changement de climat pour le developpement -- Point de vue - La technologie, et non les discours, sauvera la planete -- La macroeconomie moderne s'egare -- Reequilibrer la croissance en Asie -- Reconstituer la richesse americaine -- Survivre a la troisieme vague -- Le pour et le contre -- Pauvrete: en baisse ou en hausse? -- Les relances budgetaires efficaces -- Le choix du regime de change -- Trop importantes pour etre ignorees -- La crise est endiguee -- L'ABC de l'economie -- Notes de lecture -- Entre nous -- Gros plan -- Index des articles de 2009.
Sommario/riassunto	Climate Change: Stimulating a Green Recovery" looks at the global problem of climate change. With the world apparently on an economic recovery path, policymakers are looking at ways to limit the impact of climate change through broad international action. One of the challenges is to balance actions to mitigate climate change with measures to stimulate growth and prosperity. This issue of F&D also examines a variety of issues raised by the crisis-including the future of macroeconomics, explored by William White, former chief economist at the Bank for International Settlements, and the longer-te