

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910480400303321
Autore	Silverstein Helena
Titolo	Girls on the Stand [[electronic resource]] : How Courts Fail Pregnant Minors
Pubbl/distr/stampa	NYU Press, 2009
ISBN	1-4798-4128-5
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (256 p.)
Disciplina	342.7308772
Soggetti	Abortion -- Law and legislation -- United States Judicial discretion -- United States Judicial process -- United States Minors -- United States Teenage mothers -- Legal status, laws, etc. -- United States Teenage pregnancy -- United States Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di contenuto	""Cover Page""; ""Title Page""; ""Copyright Page""; ""Dedication""; ""Contents""; ""Acknowledgments""; ""I Parental Involvement Mandates""; ""1 A Balancing Act""; ""2 The Legal Landscape""; ""II Gaining Access to the Bypass Process""; ""3 Satisfaction""; ""4 Ignorance""; ""5 Misconduct""; ""III The Judicial Pulpit""; ""6 Judgment Day""; ""7 Facing the Fetus""; ""IV Law and Politics""; ""8 The Constitutional Fine Print""; ""9 Myth-Guided Policy""; ""Notes""; ""Bibliography""; ""Index""; ""About the Author""
Sommario/riassunto	Choice Outstanding Academic Title for 2008 The U.S. Supreme Court has decided that states may require parental involvement in the abortion decisions of pregnant minors as long as minors have the opportunity to petition for a &#quot;bypass" of parental involvement. To date, virtually all of the 34 states that mandate parental involvement have put judges in charge of the bypass process. Individual judges are thereby responsible for deciding whether or not the minor has a legitimate basis to seek an abortion absent parental participation. In this revealing and disturbing book, Helena Silverstein pr

