

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910495959303321
Autore	Johnson Miriam M
Titolo	Strong mothers, weak wives : the search for gender equality
Pubbl/distr/stampa	[Place of publication not identified], : University of California Press, 1988
ISBN	0-520-35259-9 0-520-90853-8 0-585-32101-9
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (325 p.)
Disciplina	305.4/890655
Soggetti	Wives - Psychology Mothers - Psychology Sex role Sex differences (Psychology) Dominance (Psychology) Psychosexual Development Parents Human Rights Marital Status Identification, Psychological Family Characteristics Personality Development Nuclear Family Social Control, Formal Psychoanalytic Theory Defense Mechanisms Persons Personality Demography Socioeconomic Factors Health Care Economics and Organizations Family Sociology Behavior and Behavior Mechanisms Named Groups Psychological Theory Population Characteristics Psychology, Social

Delivery of Health Care
Social Sciences
Psychiatry and Psychology
Psychological Phenomena and Processes
Anthropology, Education, Sociology and Social Phenomena
Women's Rights
Marriage
Gender Identity
Mothers
Sociology & Social History
Family & Marriage

Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Sommario/riassunto	A leading theorist in the sociology of sex and gender, Miriam Johnson establishes as her starting point the belief that inequality is not inherent or inevitable in heterosexual relations. In Strong Mothers, Weak Wives she develops this notion by examining how gender differences get translated into gender inequalities and how this process relates to the structure of the nuclear family and to the social organization of modern societies.
