

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910524678603321
Titolo	The Rise and Decline of U.S. Military Culture Programs, 2004-20 / edited by Kerry B. Foshier and Lauren Mackenzie
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Quantico, Virginia : , : Marine Corps University Press, , 2021 ©2021
ISBN	1-7370405-5-7
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource
Disciplina	303.482
Soggetti	Military education - Social aspects - United States International relations and culture - United States Cross-cultural orientation - United States Intercultural communication - Study and teaching - United States Cultural competence - Study and teaching - United States Electronic books. United States Armed Forces Officials and employees Training of
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Big Battles, Small Victories : Personal Experience in Culture Wars, 2003-9 / by Ben Connable -- On Becoming "Wise in the Ways of Others" : Lessons Learned from Integrating Culture into Professional Military Education Curriculum / by Lauren Mackenzie -- From Aha Moments to Emerging Stories of the Good Old Days : Reflections from 25 Years in a Fascinating Field / by Susan Steen -- Surfing the Sine Wave of Military Culture Education / by Angelle Khachadoorian -- The Company I Kept : Twenty Years at the Naval Postgraduate School / by Anna Simons -- From Concept to Capability : Developing Cross-Cultural Competence through U.S. Air Force Education / by Brian R. Selmeski -- Bridging the Social Science Research-to-Practice Gap / by Allison Abbe -- A Few Things I Know about Culture Programs or Why Nothing Works / by Kerry B. Foshier -- Alternative Perspectives : Launching and Running the Marine Corps' Culture Center / by Jeffery Bearor and George Dallas.
Sommario/riassunto	"Though the priorities of senior military leaders inevitably change over time, the pressing need for American Service personnel to accommodate the human dimension for success in their ongoing military operations has not diminished. That capability now may be even more important than ever. Almost inevitably, the requirement will reach a critical stage in some future crisis. This book compiles the insights and findings of some of the most determined and resourceful scientists, scholars, and practitioners engaged in the military's culture programs to inculcate the new capabilities in the early twenty-first century. The authors do not gloss over failures and dead ends. Rather, their expectation is that by presenting the bad with the good, they can help future generations engaged in the same task avoid their pitfalls and build on their work. More importantly, the authors hope that their writing might reach those who are still engaged in building cultural capabilities and that they will find encouragement to continue this essential work"--
