

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910552754603321
Autore	Vickery Walter N.
Titolo	Pushkin : death of a poet // Walter N. Vickery
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Bloomington, Indiana : , : Indiana University Press, , [1968] ©1968
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (146 pages) ; : illustrations
Disciplina	891.713
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Sommario/riassunto	Pushkin: Death of a Poet is a careful appraisal of the available facts, casting doubt on many sidely circulated theories concerning Pushkin's death. Sifting the evidence from contemporary letters, diaries, and other sources, the author examines Pushkin's motives: his intense envy of his wife's popularity; his own social discomfort and failure; his humiliating obligation to the Tsar; his growing artistic sterility. He recreates the personalities of the central figures in the story and explores the tangled web of events which preceded the duel and the desperate last-minute efforts by friends of both Pushkin and d'Anthes to prevent their meeting. A vivid account of the duel itself and its tragic aftermath concludes this engrossing study of a perplexing chapter in literary history.