

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910554253703321
Autore	Voeten Erik <1972->
Titolo	Ideology and international institutions // Erik Voeten
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Princeton ; ; Oxford : , : Princeton University Press, , [2021] Â©2021
ISBN	0691207321 9780691207339 069120733X 9780691207315 9780691207322
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (1 online resource 261 pages)
Collana	Princeton scholarship online
Disciplina	320
Soggetti	Political science World politics Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Also issued in print: 2021.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Frontmatter -- Contents -- Acknowledgments -- Chapter 1. Introduction -- Chapter 2. Global Ideological Conflict: Concept and Measurement -- Chapter 3. Ideology and Theories of International Institutions -- Chapter 4. A Spatial Modeling Framework -- Chapter 5. Expertise, Ideology, and Distributive Politics -- Chapter 6. Ideological Structure and Membership in International Institutions -- Chapter 7. Ideology, Institutions, Power, and Militarized Disputes -- Chapter 8. Ideology and the Investment Regime -- Chapter 9. Populism and Backlashes against International Courts -- Chapter 10. Conclusion: Implications for the Liberal International Order -- Notes -- Bibliography -- Index
Sommario/riassunto	Today's liberal international institutional order is being challenged by the rising power of illiberal states and by domestic political changes inside liberal states. Against such a backdrop, this book offers a broader understanding of international institutions by arguing that the politics of multilateralism has always been based on ideology and ideological divisions. The book develops new theories and measures to make sense of past and current challenges to multilateral institutions. It presents a straightforward theoretical framework that analyzes multilateral institutions as attempts by states to shift the policies of others toward their preferred ideological positions. It then measures how states have positioned themselves in global ideological conflicts during the past seventy-five years.
