Sommario/riassunto	The sixth edition of the Pretoria Student Law Review truly signifies the journal's commitment to servicing students. Our journal's editorial policy was redrafted, introducing a faculty-supported Editorial Board, all in service of constructing a system that would best serve students who have a desire to write, notwithstanding our strong developmental emphasis. Following the departure made in the previous edition, the 2012 journal includes the best written pieces submitted in conjunction with the University of Pretoria's Law Faculty Festival. The 'Write On' encouraged students to submit pieces based on the theme of 'What is Law' and provided an avenue for many students who had never thought of legal writing outside of their prescribed curriculum. Beyond the University of Pretoria's own faculty, this edition includes submissions from the National Law University Delhi and the University of KwaZulu-Natal.
