

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910587595803321
Autore	Guaman Hernandez Adoracion
Titolo	Lex Mercatoria, Derechos Humanos y Democracia : Un Estudio Del Neoliberalismo Autoritario y Las Resistencias en América Latina
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Buenos Aires : , : Consejo Latinoamericano de Ciencias Sociales, , 2021 ©2021
ISBN	9789878130026 9878130029
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (384 pages)
Altri autori (Persone)	PronerCarol RicobomGisele
Soggetti	Human rights Latin America
Lingua di pubblicazione	Spagnolo
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Sommario/riassunto	This book explores the interplay between Lex Mercatoria, human rights, and democracy in Latin America, examining authoritarian practices and resistance movements in the region. It delves into the impact of neoliberal capitalism on human rights, focusing on how financial institutions, trade agreements, and corporate interests shape social and economic dynamics. The authors discuss the concept of 'corporate state capture' and its implications for democracy, highlighting issues such as Lawfare and the suppression of political pluralism. The book is aimed at scholars, policymakers, and activists interested in understanding the socio-political landscape of Latin America and the challenges faced by democracy and human rights under neoliberal regimes.