

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910632469703321
Titolo	Plural policing in the global north : insights into concepts, aspects and practices // Nathalie Hirschmann [and three others]
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Cham, Switzerland : , : Springer, , [2022] ©2022
ISBN	3-031-16273-0
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (235 pages)
Disciplina	363.2068
Soggetti	Police administration
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Intro -- Preface -- Contents -- Editors and Contributors -- About the Editors -- Contributors -- Plural Policing in the Global North -- 1 Structure and Objectives of the Book -- 1.1 Concepts of Plural Policing in the Global North -- 1.2 Practices of Plural Policing in the Global North -- 1.3 Aspects of (Plural) Policing in the Global North -- References -- Part I Concepts of Plural Policing in the Global North -- The Contradictory Institutionalization of Plural Policing in Continental Europe: A Comparative Perspective -- 1 Introduction -- 2 Prevailing Theories and some Shortcomings -- 3 The Institutionalization of Plural Policing -- 4 Methodological Notes -- 5 Plural Policing in Europe: An Overview -- 6 Some European Cases: Austria, Sweden, and Belgium -- 6.1 Austria -- 6.2 Sweden -- 6.3 Belgium -- 7 Concluding Remarks -- References -- A Taxonomy of Plural Policing in the United States -- 1 Introduction -- 2 Public Policing -- 3 Semi-Private Public Policing -- 4 Semi-Public Private Policing -- 5 Private Policing -- 6 Conclusion -- References -- Plural Policing in Germany-Heterogeneity and the Contingency of Its Making -- 1 Introduction -- 2 Policing and Plural Policing -- 3 Plural Policing in Germany-Developments and Forms of Policing -- 4 Heterogeneity and Variance of German Plural Policing -- 5 Models of Plural Policing in Germany -- 6 Variances of Plural Policing in a Broader View -- 7 Policy Making in Spaces of Possibilities and the Contingency of Plural Policing Policies -- 8 Discussion -- 9 Conclusion -- References -- Part II Practices of Plural Policing -- Plural Policing of

Immigrant Neighbourhoods in Germany: An Understanding of the Concept and Resulting Recommendations for Action -- 1 Introduction -- 2 The Research Project Migration and Urban Security -- 2.1 Background Information on the Research Project -- 2.2 Research Questions. 2.3 Research Methods -- 2.4 Results -- 2.5 Areas of Action and Recommendations: Research Based Hypotheses -- 3 Conceptual Understanding of Policing in the Context of the Migration and Urban Security Project (Migsst) -- References -- Supporting and Developing Police Support Volunteers in a Large Urban Constabulary in England, UK -- 1 Introduction -- 2 Organisational Approaches to PSVs -- 2.1 Clarifying a Corporate Position for Involving PSVs -- 2.2 The Influence of Individual Leaders -- 2.3 Changing Leadership Messages -- 2.4 A Volunteer 'Hierarchy' -- 3 Supporting and Developing PSVs through Dedicated Volunteer Management -- 3.1 An Emotional Contract -- 3.2 'Championing' PSVs and the Voluntary Contribution -- 4 Resourcing Volunteer Programmes -- 4.1 Diminishing Investment in Volunteer Management -- 4.2 Managing PSVs with Fewer Resources -- 5 Involving PSVs in Austere Times -- 5.1 The PSV 'Offer': Additionality or Substitution? -- 5.2 The Challenges of Balancing Additionality and Substitution in a Changing Service -- 5.3 Changing Conversations in a Changing Landscape -- 6 Discussion and Concluding Thoughts -- 6.1 The Importance of Leadership -- 6.2 The Importance of Volunteer Management -- 6.3 The Impact of Austerity -- 6.4 Looking to the Future: PSVs in a Changing Policing Landscape -- References -- Volunteer Police Services in Germany: Two Case Studies on Goals and Underlying Forms of Legitimacy -- 1 Introduction -- 2 The Broader Picture: Community Policing, Volunteer Police Services, and criticism -- 3 Voluntary Policing and Legitimacy -- 4 Methods -- 5 Voluntary Policing: Two Case Studies -- 5.1 Implementation and Developments of the Volunteer Police Services -- 5.2 The Volunteer Police Services in D and E -- 5.3 Goals of Voluntary Policing and Their Connection to Increasing Input and Output Legitimacy. 5.3.1 Reducing the Fear of Crime/Increasing the Feeling of Security -- 5.3.2 Building a Bridge Between Citizens and the Police -- 5.3.3 Control and Prevention of Crime and Misdemeanor: Deterrence, (Non) intervention, and Prevention -- 5.3.4 Taking the Workload of the Police/Supporting the Police -- 6 Discussion and Conclusion -- References -- Plural Policing in Norway: Regulation, Collaboration, and the Public Interests -- 1 Introduction -- 2 The Empirical Context of Global Transportation Hubs -- 3 Research Design -- 4 The Pluralized Policing of Norway and the Regulatory Regime -- 5 Security Networks and Collaboration at Norwegian Maritime Ports and Airports -- 6 Collaboration and the Challenges of the Public-Private Divide -- 7 Concluding Discussion: Nordic Policing Exceptionalism? -- References -- Part III Additional Aspects of Plural Policing -- Pluralized Narratives of Security: Descriptive Insights from the Private Industry -- 1 Introduction -- 2 Literature Review -- 3 An Illustration: Narratives on Private Security Vendor Websites -- 3.1 A Disruptive Future -- 3.2 A More Efficient Public Sector -- 3.3 Ensuring Trustworthy Relations -- 4 Discussion -- 5 Conclusion -- References -- Trust in Private Security: Current Research in Finland -- 1 Introduction -- 2 Private Security in the Finnish Plural Policing Context -- 3 Citizens' General Trust in Private Security Companies -- 4 Young People's Encounters with Private Security Guards and Ethnic Profiling -- 5 How to Improve Trust: Practical Experiment in the Shopping Mall Context -- 6 Security Guards' Victimization at Their Work -- 7 Concluding Discussion -- References -- "If You Put Two Lazy People Together or Two Stupid People Together, You Don't Get Much Out of It". A German Case Study on Plural Policing and Crime-Related Feelings of (In-)Security in an Inner-City Area -- 1 Introduction.

2 Theoretical Framework -- 3 Methods and Data -- 4 Results -- 4.1 Perception of Safety and Security in Public Space -- 4.2 Trust in (Local) Security Stakeholders -- 4.3 The Perception of Security Stakeholders and Perceived Feelings of Security -- 5 Conclusion -- References --

Empirical Insights into the Complexity of a Pluralised Security Work: "It Is Very Complex, Which of Course Also Does Not Always Work

Completely Smoothly" -- 1 Introduction -- 2 Methods/Empirical Data

-- 3 Complexity Aspects of Plural Policing in Germany: Empirical Insights -- 3.1 Plural Policing in Germany -- 3.1.1 Plural Policing as

Representation of Complexity -- 3.1.2 Dealing with Complexity Through Modelling of Plural Policing -- 3.2 Actor Naming and

Appearance -- 3.2.1 Lack of Distinctiveness Between Actors as Representation of Complexity -- 3.2.2 Dealing with Complexity

Through More Distinctiveness -- 3.3 An Example of Friction Points in Plural Policing -- 3.3.1 Representation of Complexity in Everyday

Policing Work -- 3.3.2 Dealing with Complexity by Making Frictions Visible -- 4 Discussion and Considerations -- References.

---