Sommario/riassunto	Les études d'histoire et d'autres sciences sociales (sociologie, philosophie) rassemblées dans ce volume couvrent des périodes et des domaines très différents. Elles se situent dans un mouvement récent de réinterrogation des pratiques à partir de la pragmatique et du pragmatisme. En assumant le pluralisme constitutif de la démarche pragmatiste, les auteurs abordent de manière expérimentale et réflexive les questions que posent l'étude des pratiques et celle des façons de les concevoir. Le volume propose un parcours allant des pratiques qui produisent les sources à la généalogie de la pensée de l'action, des formes de l'enquête dans des univers controversés aux réinterprétations des catégories sociales par les acteurs, des actes et des actions à des phénomènes historiques à grande échelle, sans oublier les pratiques du passé réactivées comme base de la recherche. Au-delà de leurs différentes logiques épistémiques, les contributions partagent une même préoccupation de fond: proposer des chemins d'enquête qui rompent avec les versions téléologiques ou préjugées de l'histoire. Elles explorent ce faisant des configurations qui n'enferment jamais complètement les acteurs, même lorsque ceux-ci opèrent dans des mondes très contraignants, qu'il s'agisse d'institutions et de normes, de structures et de groupes sociaux, de concepts temporels et de catégories cognitives. Le primat conféré à l'expérience et à son contexte ainsi que l'attention portée à leurs qualifications par les acteurs apparaissent comme des éléments communs aux différentes formes d'histoire pragmatique.

This book explores the construction of agreement in the argumentative process, aiming to investigate how the activation of shared knowledge, values and beliefs leads to the creation of a common ground between the speaker and the audience in the pursuit of persuasion. In the first part of the book, the authors examine agreement from a historical and theoretical perspective, setting in relation major ancient and contemporary approaches to argumentation, with special regard for the notions of ethos, objects of agreement, starting points and topoi, all with a focus on their deployment in discourse. This is complemented with a compendium of linguistic resources that can be exploited for the discursive construction of agreement, offering a principled selection of structures across different levels of language description. The second part of the book is devoted to the investigation of actual uses of agreement in a choice of institutional genres within the domain of the US presidential elections: the Presidential Announcement, the TV debate and the Inaugural Address. Due to their political relevance and cultural salience, these genres provide an ideal interface for observing the interplay of discursive and argumentative components, against the backdrop of a shared cultural heritage, rich with intertextual references. The application of the theoretical framework developed in the first part of the book to the analysis of real political discourse carried out in the second is the distinguishing feature of this volume, making it of interest to linguists and argumentation scholars, as well as to political scientists and communicators.
