

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910647211103321
Titolo	Migrants and welfare states : balancing dilemmas in northern Europe / / edited by Christian Albrekt Larsen
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Northampton : , : Edward Elgar Publishing, , 2022
ISBN	9781803923734 9781803923727
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (228 pages)
Disciplina	305.906912094 361.65094
Soggetti	Immigrants - Europe, Northern - Social conditions Welfare state - Europe, Northern Europe, Northern Emigration and immigration
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (pages [185]-204) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Front Matter -- Copyright -- Contents -- Tables -- Contributors -- Preface -- 1. Migration and Northern European welfare states -- 2. Modelling the inflow of asylum seekers into Northern Europe: are access to generous welfare benefits and other policies affecting destination choice? -- 3. Asylum seekers' social rights while waiting: comparative insights from Denmark, Sweden, Germany and the Netherlands -- 4. Labour market policies and refugees: the case of Denmark, Sweden, the Netherlands and Germany -- 5. Education policies and the dilemmas concerning migrant students in the Northern European welfare states: the case of mother-tongue instruction -- 6. Memories of recognition in school: a survey of young adult immigrant descendants in Denmark and Sweden -- 7. From convergence to divergence? The evolvement of North European citizenship politics -- 8. Public opinion about migrant selection in Northern Europe -- 9. Revisiting the progressive dilemma -- References -- Index.
Sommario/riassunto	"This timely book explores how Northern European countries have sought to balance their welfare states with increased levels of migration from low-income countries outside the EU. Using case studies of the Netherlands, Germany, Denmark, and Sweden, leading scholars analyse the varying approaches to this so-called 'progressive dilemma'. Providing an in-depth analysis of the relationship between public policies and the flow of migrants into these Northern European states, the book considers which destination-country policies most attract asylum seekers and other migrants. Chapters explore how the four states have responded to increased levels of immigration, examining their handling of issues related to integrating admitted applicants into the labour market, educating the children of immigrants, and naturalisation. Concluding with an investigation into contemporary public consensus regarding migrant selection, based on original survey experiments, the book sheds light on an issue that has become both politically and academically salient in Europe since the late 20th century. Interdisciplinary in scope, this expansive book contributes to the emerging field of research in the intersection between European migration studies and welfare studies. Its examination of the states' varying responses to increased migration will be of significant interest to researchers, policymakers, and public intellectuals in Northern Europe and beyond"--
