Record Nr. UNINA9910678578303321 East India Company at Home 1757-1857 / / edited by Margot Finn and Titolo Kate Smith Pubbl/distr/stampa London:,: UCL Press,, 2018 Descrizione fisica 1 online resource (xxviii, 509 pages) Disciplina 001.3 Soggetti Humanities Influence (Literary, artistic, etc.) Interior decoration Lingua di pubblicazione Inglese Formato Materiale a stampa Livello bibliografico Monografia Nota di bibliografia Includes bibliographical references and index. Nota di contenuto 1. Why Margaret Thatcher became Conservative Party leader and prime minister -- 2. The development of Thatcherism: intellectual origins and ideological framework -- 3. The key policies -- 4. Thatcher's management and domination of the parliamentary Conservative Party -- 5. The Thatcherization of the Conservative Party since 1990 -- 6. The contradictions and consequences of Thatcherism -- Concluding comments -- Chronology. In the century between 1757 and 1857, the East India Company Sommario/riassunto brought both sizeable affluence and fresh perspective back home to Britain from the Indian subcontinent. During this period, the Company shifted its activities and increasingly employed civil servants, army officers, surveyors, and doctors, many of whom returned to Britain with newly acquired wealth, tastes, and identities. This book explored how empire in Asia shaped British country houses, their interiors and the lives of their residents. It includes chapters from researchers based in a wide range of settings such as archives and libraries, museums, heritage organisations, the community of family historians and universities. This book moved beyond conventional academic narratives on imperial culture and its British legacies.

by drawing on wider research, exploring how the empire in Asia shaped British country houses, thus contributing to the ongoing conversation