| Sommario/riassunto | Bien qu'il ait seulement le statut d'un simple upagama (A. "secondaire"), le Mrgendra contient l'un des exposes les plus detaillies du shivaisme philosophique dualiste qui soient parvenus jusqu'a nous. Il est |

considere comme faisant autorite a la fois dans la tradition cachemirienne du Nord et dans la tradition Saivasiddhanta du Sud. Il traite de l'emanation des tattvas ("realites" ou "principes") depuis Siva jusqu'a l'element terre. Il decrit egalement la generation successive des Mantras, Mantresvara, etc. Il accorde egalement beaucoup de place a diverses questions de logique et de cosmologie. On y trouve encore une refutation relativement precise de certaines ecoles philosophiques adverses, notamment du Jainisme et du materialisme. La section consacree a la description des pratiques yogiques presente un interet particulier dans la mesure ou elle fourmille de details "techniques" qu'il serait difficile de trouver ailleurs.

In spite of its being a mere upagama (a "secondary" A.), the Mrgendra contains one of the most detailed accounts of dualistic Saiva philosophy that have come down to us. It is recognized as authoritative both in the northern Kashmir tradition and the southern Saivasiddhanta tradition. It deals with the emanation of tattva-s ("realities" or "principles") from Siva down to the element earth. It also describes the successive generation of Mantra-s, Mantresvara-s, etc. It devotes a lot of space to various problems of logic and cosmology. It also includes a fairly elaborate refutation of rival philosophical schools, especially Jainism and materialism. The section devoted to the description of specific Saiva yogic practices is of special interest inasmuch as it's brimming over with "technical details" rarely found elsewhere. The book contains the French translation of the Sanskrit text with an introduction in French and a summary of the introduction in English.
