

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910764253803321
Autore	Hadda Lamia
Titolo	Architettura Islamica Nel Mediterraneo Fatimide (X-XII Secolo)
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Florence : , : Firenze University Press, , 2024 ©2023
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (164 pages)
Collana	Ricerche. Architettura, Pianificazione, Paesaggio, Design Series ; ; v.28
Disciplina	723.3
Soggetti	Islamic architecture - History
Lingua di pubblicazione	Italiano
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Sommario/riassunto	Despite a rather conflicted origin and a controversial genealogy, the Fatimids were one of the most promising and flourishing dynasties in Islam. Their two-century reign, from 969 to 1171, represents a significant period in the history of the medieval Mediterranean. The dynasty took its first steps in Ifriqiya, present-day Tunisia, and from there extended their rule throughout North Africa until the capture of Egypt. Sicily, conquered by the Muslims in the 9th century, also fell under Fatimid rule until 1091, the date of the Norman conquest of the island. In this historical context, the book attempts to shed light on the main events starting with the architecture built in North Africa and the cultural exchanges between the two shores of the Mediterranean.