Sommario/riassunto

"How do regulatory structures evolve in EU financial governance? Incorporating insights from a variety of disciplines, Governing Finance in Europe provides a comprehensive framework to investigate the dynamics leading to centralisation, decentralisation and fragmentation in EU financial regulation. Offering a comprehensive and generalizable theoretical account of regulatory centralisation, this book combines theoretical approaches from political science, law, sociology and economics to trace centralisation in EU financial governance.

Contributors build on a rich political science and legal literature and offer empirical analyses of major EU legislative packages in financial regulation, including the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive II (MiFID II) and Capital Markets Union (CMU). This book systematically identifies and examines the forces and counter-forces on regulatory centralisation. It also offers conjectures as to who benefits from the regulation and how decision-makers are held politically and legally accountable. Featuring contributions from internationally renowned scholars, this book is key reading for academics working in finance and financial policies, particularly those investigating European politics, regulation and regional integration. It will also be of interest to practitioners and policymakers, as chapters provide unique insights into the real-world implications of financial regulation"--

Sommario/riassunto	In 15 portraits of the history of science, Austrian historians are presented who lived through their decisive phase of activity between 1900 and 1945 and who left lasting traces in historical studies. The central topics of each contribution are: scientific career, scientific-historical classification of the oeuvre, taking into account its time-relatedness and possible changes in perspective or paradigm, scientific networks across universities and other institutions, memberships in scientific and political associations and political parties, university teaching. Following on from the first volume with 18 portraits, published in 2008, an essential contribution to the profile of Austrian historical studies 1900-1945 is made.
