

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910777607203321
Autore	Freedman Estelle B. <1947->
Titolo	Feminism, sexuality, and politics [[electronic resource]] : essays / / by Estelle B. Freedman
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Chapel Hill, : University of North Carolina Press, c2006
ISBN	979-88-908794-8-6 0-8078-7710-7
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (270 p.)
Collana	Gender and American culture
Disciplina	306.7082
Soggetti	Feminism - United States - History Women's studies - United States Homosexuality - United States - History Sex - Political aspects - United States
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. [197]-240) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction: Identities, values, and inquiries : a personal history -- Separatism as strategy : female institution building and American feminism, 1870-1930 -- Separatism revisited : women's institutions, social reform, and the career of Miriam Van Waters -- Women's networks and women's loyalties : reflections on a tenure case -- Small group pedagogy : consciousness raising in conservative times -- No turning back : the historical resilience of feminism -- The historical construction of homosexuality in the United States -- Uncontrolled desires : the response to the sexual psychopath, 1920-1960 -- The prison lesbian : race, class, and the construction of the aggressive female homosexual, 1915-1965 -- The burning of letters continues : elusive identities and the historical construction of sexuality -- When historical interpretation meets legal advocacy : abortion, sodomy, and same-sex marriage.
Sommario/riassunto	One of a small group of feminist pioneers in the historical profession, Estelle B Freedman teaches and writes about women's history with a passion informed by her feminist values. This book brings together eleven essays that document the evolving relationship between academic feminism and political feminism as Freedman has studied and lived it.
