

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910778222003321
Autore	Hanushek Eric A (Eric Alan), <1943->
Titolo	Schoolhouses, courthouses, and statehouses [[electronic resource]] : solving the funding-achievement puzzle in America's public schools // Eric A. Hanushek and Alfred A. Lindseth
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Princeton, : Princeton University Press, c2009
ISBN	1-282-15794-9 9786612157943 1-4008-3025-7
Edizione	[Course Book]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (432 p.)
Altri autori (Persone)	LindsethAlfred A
Disciplina	379.1/220973
Soggetti	Public schools - United States - Finance Academic achievement - United States
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Frontmatter -- Contents -- Figures -- Tables -- Preface -- Introduction -- 1. Just How Important Is Education? -- 2. U.S. Education at a Crossroads -- 3. The Political Responses -- 4. Court Interventions in School Finance -- 5. Practical Issues with Educational Adequacy -- 6. The Effectiveness of Judicial Remedies -- 7. Science and School Finance Decision Making -- 8. A Performance-Based Funding System -- 9. Making Performance-Based Funding a Reality -- Notes -- Legal Citations -- Sources for Figures and Tables -- References -- Index
Sommario/riassunto	Spurred by court rulings requiring states to increase public-school funding, the United States now spends more per student on K-12 education than almost any other country. Yet American students still achieve less than their foreign counterparts, their performance has been flat for decades, millions of them are failing, and poor and minority students remain far behind their more advantaged peers. In this book, Eric Hanushek and Alfred Lindseth trace the history of reform efforts and conclude that the principal focus of both courts and legislatures on ever-increasing funding has done little to improve student achievement. Instead, Hanushek and Lindseth propose a new approach: a performance-based system that directly links funding to success in raising student achievement. This system would empower and motivate educators to make better, more cost-effective decisions about how to run their schools, ultimately leading to improved student performance. Hanushek and Lindseth have been important participants in the school funding debate for three decades. Here, they draw on their experience, as well as the best available research and data, to show why improving schools will require overhauling the way financing, incentives, and accountability work in public education.
