

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910778340003321
Autore	Frederickson David G
Titolo	Measuring the performance of the hollow state [[electronic resource] /] / David G. Frederickson and H. George Frederickson
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Washington, D.C., : Georgetown University Press, c2006
ISBN	1-58901-366-2 1-4356-2720-2
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (233 p.)
Collana	Public management and change series
Altri autori (Persone)	FredericksonH. George
Disciplina	352.5/382439
Soggetti	Contracting out - United States - Evaluation Subcontracting - United States Government productivity - United States - Evaluation
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 199-206) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction: federal performance measurement -- Setting the stage: third parties, fiscal federalism, and accountability -- Performance measurement as political and administrative reform -- Performance as grants to third party service providers: the Health Resources and Services Administration -- Performance as the provision of health financial security: the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services -- Performance as grants to third-party research providers: the National Institutes of Health -- Measuring the health performance of sovereign tribes as third parties: the Indian Health Services -- Performance as regulation: the Food and Drug Administration -- Measuring performance and results in theory and practice -- After Government Performance and Results Act : performance measurement, performance budgeting and performance management.
Sommario/riassunto	Measuring the Performance of the Hollow State is the first in-depth look at the influence of performance measurement on the effectiveness of the federal government. To do this, the authors examine the influence of the Government Performance and Results Act of 1993 (with consideration of the later Program Assessment Rating Tool of 2002) on federal performance measurement, agency performance, and program outcomes. They focus a systematic examination on five agencies in the

