

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910779711103321
Autore	Davis Mary <1949->
Titolo	Language and connection in psychotherapy [[electronic resource]] : words matter / / Mary Davis, MD
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, Md. : Jason Aronson, 2013
ISBN	1-4422-3820-8 0-7657-0874-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (131 p.)
Disciplina	616.89/14
Soggetti	Psychotherapist and patient Psychotherapy - Language
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 115-118) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Acknowledgments; Introduction; 1 The Language of Color and Hope; 2 Bringing Meaning to Words in Psychotherapy; 3 Form Follows Function; 4 Bridging the Gap; 5 Normal Language Development; 6 Interferences with Normal Development; 7 The Language of Trauma; 8 Saying the Unsayable; 9 Why Do Words Matter?; Bibliography; Index; About the Author
Sommario/riassunto	Language and Connection in Psychotherapy: Words Matter explores the role of language in interpersonal and intrapsychic life, looking at how it can support as well as interfere with our ability to function in a social environment. The ways in which language can be used and enhanced to foster change within psychotherapy are discussed, exploring the tension between explicit or verbal thought and implicit or nonverbal thought.