

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910779835803321
Autore	Haller Gret <1947->
Titolo	Human rights without democracy? [[electronic resource]] : reconciling freedom with equality / / Gret Haller ; translated by Cynthia Klohr
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York, : Berghahn Books, c2012
ISBN	0-85745-787-X
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (198 p.)
Altri autori (Persone)	KlohrCynthia
Disciplina	323
Soggetti	Human rights - Philosophy Democracy
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. [176]-184) and index.
Nota di contenuto	The prehistory and context of human rights -- First notions of human rights -- Human rights, morals, and law -- From human rights to positive law -- Human rights, the state, and democracy -- Politics and law -- The Cold War -- Moralizing human rights -- Natural right and imposed concepts of man -- Perspectives for democratic legitimacy -- Universality and regionalization -- Repercussions from the Cold War.
Sommario/riassunto	Do Human Rights truly serve the people? Should citizens themselves decide democratically of what those rights consist? Or is it a decision for experts and the courts? Gret Haller argues that Human Rights must be established democratically. Drawing on the works of political philosophers from John Locke to Immanuel Kant, she explains why, from a philosophical point of view, liberty and equality need not be mutually exclusive. She outlines the history of the concept of Human Rights, shedding light on the historical development of factual rights, and compares how Human Rights are understood in th