

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910780667103321
Autore	Scoville Chester N (Chester Norman), 1968- <1968->
Titolo	Saints and the audience in Middle English biblical drama // Chester N. Scoville
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Toronto, [Ontario] ; ; Buffalo, [New York] ; ; London, [England] : , : University of Toronto Press, , 2004 ©2004
ISBN	1-281-99257-7 9786611992576 1-4426-7954-9
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (149 p.)
Disciplina	822.05160901
Soggetti	Mysteries and miracle-plays, English - History and criticism Christian drama, English (Middle) - History and criticism Theater audiences - England - History - To 1500 English drama - To 1500 - History and criticism Bible plays, English - History and criticism Christian saints in literature History Criticism, interpretation, etc. Electronic books. Mittelenglisch England
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Medieval Drama and Community Identity -- Thomas and the Limits of Rhetoric -- Mary Magdalene and Ethical Decorum -- Joseph, Pathos, and the Audience -- Paul and the Rhetoric of Sainthood.
Sommario/riassunto	"The study of saints in medieval biblical drama has often been neglected in favour of the study of sinners - the villains and the rogues. In Saints and the Audience in Middle English Biblical Drama, Chester N. Scoville takes a different tack, examining the language and rhetoric of saintly characters in Middle English biblical plays. Scoville contends that the plays focus attention on the interaction between the divine realm and the human realm, that the saintly characters are key to seeing this interaction, and that the overall function of the plays is to instill in the audience a shared point of view defined both by doctrine and by experience."--Jacket.
