1.	Record Nr.	UNINA9910780839703321
	Autore	Rattle Robert
	Titolo	Computing our way to paradise? [[electronic resource]] : the role of internet and communication technologies in sustainable consumption and globalization / / Robert Rattle
	Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, MD, : Rowman & Littlefield, c2010
	ISBN	1-282-47961-X
		9786612479618
		0-7591-1933-3
	Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (247 p.)
	Collana	Globalization and the Environment
	Disciplina	303.48/33
		303.4833
		333.720285
	Soggetti	Internet - Social aspects
		Sustainable development
		Information technology - Social aspects
	Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
	Formato	Materiale a stampa
	Livello bibliografico	Monografia
	Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
	Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
	Nota di contenuto	Contents; Foreword; Acknowledgments; Chapter 1. ICTs and Globalization: Asking Important Questions; Chapter 2. The Poverty of Affluence: Sustainable Consumption and Global Environmental Change; Chapter 3. Virtual Morality: Globalization, ICTs, and Sustainable Consumption; Chapter 4. Lulled to Complacency: ICTs and Energy and Materials Consumption; Chapter 5. The Efficiency Paradox: Intensity and Consumption; Chapter 6. From Social Meanings to Global Conformity: ICTs and the Global Commons; Chapter 7. Pathological Tendencies: The Health Link
		Chapter 8. Incantations and ICTs: A Global Ideological PervasionChapter 9. Redefining Reality, Transforming Values; Chapter 10. Global Transformations: Serious Considerations and Promising Opportunities; Bibliography; Index; About the Author
	Sommario/riassunto	Computing Our Way to Paradise? challenges key assumptions concerning the role of Internet and communication technologies in globalization processes. The author argues that while globalization is predicated upon a strong, extensive, and interconnected network of products, processes, and services, the real environmental and health benefits remain far from certain.