

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910782585703321
Autore	Caine Barbara
Titolo	Bombay to Bloomsbury [[electronic resource] ] : a biography of the Strachey family // Barbara Caine
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Oxford ; ; New York, : Oxford University Press, 2005
ISBN	1-383-03900-3 1-281-34581-4 9786611345815 0-19-153052-2
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (507 p.)
Disciplina	929/.2/08921054
Soggetti	British - India Imperialism Feminism - Great Britain Great Britain Biography Great Britain Intellectual life
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 463-474) and index.
Nota di contenuto	An Anglo-Indian family -- An imperial marriage -- Strachey childhoods -- School days -- University life -- Modern marriages -- Single life -- Sibling ties -- Work, income, and changing career patterns -- Gender transformations and the question of sexuality -- A feminist family -- Continuity and change -- A literary family -- Old age and death.
Sommario/riassunto	The Stracheys were an exceptionally intelligent and unusual family. Prominent in imperial administration, science, and feminism in the nineteenth century, and in the suffrage movement, women's education, and the bringing of new approaches to sexuality in the twentieth century, they had a wide and significant influence. Examining Lytton Strachey, his parents and nine siblings, Barbara Caine provides a fascinating picture of a diverse and complex family in a period of change from Victorian England to the beat generation. - ;The Stracheys were an exceptionally intelligent and unusual family, pro