

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910782814003321
Autore	Rodger John
Titolo	Criminalising Social Policy [[electronic resource]] : Anti-social Behaviour and Welfare in a De-civilised Society
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Hoboken, : Taylor and Francis, 2012
ISBN	1-134-00294-7 1-134-00287-4 1-283-88859-9 1-282-07756-2 9786612077562 1-84392-540-0
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (256 p.)
Disciplina	303.330941 361.1
Soggetti	Social control Social control - Great Britain Nuisances - Great Britain Public welfare - Great Britain Criminal justice, Administration of - Great Britain Social Conditions Social Change Sociology & Social History Social Sciences
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di contenuto	Criminalising Social Policy Anti-social behaviour and welfare in a de-civilised society; Copyright; Contents; Acknowledgements; Introduction; Outline of the book; Chapter 1 Criminalising social policy: some general observations; Criminalising social policy; Welfare and discipline; Civil law and natural justice; Dysfunctional families and anti-social children; Concluding observations; Chapter 2 Incivility and welfare in a de-civilised society; The theory of the civilising process; De-civilisation and welfare retrenchment; Attitudes, emotions and post-emotionalism

De-civilising tendencies in penal policy
Concluding observations;
Chapter 3 Disorderly behaviour and underclass culture: the emergence of the 'chav' and 'NEET' generation; The creation of the 'NEET' generation; The enduring issue of the underclass; The coarsening of culture; Class, culture and consumption; Culture and instrumentalism; Value orientations or cultural toolkit?; Concluding observations;
Chapter 4 The politics and policy of incivility; Informalisation and crime as a normal social fact; The 'new politics of welfare': from social steering to social regulation

The politics of withholding benefits
Regulatory communities and the politics of social inclusion; Concluding observations;
Chapter 5 Family life and anti-social behaviour; Personal relationships in contemporary society; Family life and criminality; The de-civilising of parents; Family policy and anti-social behaviour under New Labour; Intensive family support: the case of the Dundee Family Project; Concluding observations: desistance from crime and anti-social behaviour;
Chapter 6 Child welfare and juvenile justice; Punishing parents and the anti-social behaviour strategy

Youth offending and juvenile justice in England
The Children's Hearing system in Scotland; Restorative practices; Concluding observations;
Chapter 7 The strategy for civil renewal and community safety; The 'third way' and the voluntary sector; Civil renewal, welfare and inauthentic politics; Community safety and established-outsider relations; Concluding observations;
Chapter 8 Fear of the uncivil and the criminal; Civilising security; Signal crimes and fear; Streetwise behaviour as inverted fear; Social policy and the problem of security; Concluding observations

Chapter 9 Conclusions: criminology and social policy
Social policy or moral regulation?; Welfare and institutional anomie; Social policy and criminal justice: finding the balance; References; Index

Sommario/riassunto

Recent legislative and policy developments in contemporary Britain have ushered in a new approach to criminal justice. The focus on criminal dispositions and welfarism has given way to a strategy which now involves the management of social exclusion, dysfunctional and anti-social families and situational crime prevention, leading to what has been widely characterized as the 'criminalisation of social policy' - and evidenced most recently by the anti-social behaviour and respect agendas. This book is concerned to explore, analyse and explain these developments. It seeks at the same ti
