

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910783238803321
Titolo	Acute mental health nursing [[electronic resource] ] : from acute concerns to the capable practitioner / / edited by Marc Harrison, David Howard and Damian Mitchell
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London, : SAGE, 2004
ISBN	1-4462-2121-0 1-4462-2941-6 1-280-20466-4 9786610204663 1-4129-3235-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (xii, 239 p.) : 1 ill
Altri autori (Persone)	HarrisonMarc HowardDavid, RGN. MitchellDamian
Disciplina	616.890231
Soggetti	Psychiatric nursing
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Cover; Contents; List of Contributors; Foreword; An introduction to acute mental health care: from acute concerns to the capable practitioner; Chapter 1 - Acute psychiatric in-patient assessment; Chapter 2 - Measuring health and social functioning using HoNOS; Chapter 3 - Social inclusion and acute care; Chapter 4 - Strategies for surviving acute care; Chapter 5 - Case management: perspectives of the UK and US systems; Chapter 6 - Integrated care pathways: the 'acute' context; Chapter 7 - Risk assessment and management in acute mental health care; Chapter 8 - Observation Chapter 9 - Cognitive behaviour therapy in in-patient careChapter 10 - Psychosocial interventions; Chapter 11 - Medication management; Index
Sommario/riassunto	Drawing on the latest developments in policy and planning, this text addresses issues which are specific to working in inpatient settings. It has been designed for use in training and is also a useful source of reference for use in practice.

