Sommario/riassunto

This inter-disciplinary volume demonstrates, from a range of perspectives, the complex cultural work and struggles over meaning that lie at the heart of what we call memory. In the last decade, a focus on memory in the human sciences has encouraged new approaches to the study of the past. As the humanities and social sciences have put into question their own claims to objectivity, authority and universality, memory has appeared to offer a way of engaging with knowledge of the past as inevitably partial, subjective and local. At the same time, memory and memorial practices have become Historical perspective : why airframes have holes -- Airframe manufacturing cost drivers -- Incentives and disincentives to automate -- Types of drill/countersink automation -- Considerations before replacing hand drilling with mechanization or automation -- How to choose the right automation -- Steps to installation -- Test procedures -- Transition to production -- Training -- Maintenance -- Social impact of automation -- Future state of airframes and automation summary -- Appendix A Automated machine suppliers for D/C of airframes.

Sommario/riassunto

Modern aircraft manufacturing involves drilling and countersinking hundreds of thousands to millions of holes. Doing this work by hand accounts for 65% of the cost of airframe assembly, 85% of the quality issues, and 80% of the lost time due to injuries.

The focus of this book is on automating the process of drilling and countersinking holes during airframe manufacturing. Since this is the area of greatest return on investment for airframe producers, the book provides a stepped approach for evaluating possible areas for applying automation and a detailed description of the process for choosing, acquiring, and transitioning the right machinery for success. It also provides a vision for a 10- to 15-year future state of airframe manufacture.
