

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910783747903321
Autore	Bogart W. A (William A.)
Titolo	Good government? Good citizens? : courts, politics, and markets in a changing Canada // W.A. Bogart
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Vancouver : , : UBC Press, , 2005 ©2005
ISBN	0-7748-5138-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (xiv, 248 pages)
Collana	Law and society series
Disciplina	306.2/0971
Soggetti	Political participation - Canada - History Political culture - Canada - History Citizenship - Canada Canada Social conditions 1971-1991 Canada Social conditions 1991-
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Bibliographic Level Mode of Issuance: Monograph
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Before the transformation -- The ascendance of courts -- Representative politics in disarray -- Chasing choice : the market abounding -- Aborigines : two row wampum, second thoughts, and citizen plus -- Citizens in cyberspace : the Internet and Canadian democracy -- The youngest citizens and education as a public good? -- Ever more citizens who are senior : an ageing Canada -- Conclusion: The dance of adjustment"
Sommario/riassunto	"In Good Government? Good Citizens? W.A. Bogart explores the evolving concept of the citizen in Canada, focusing on three determining forces: courts, politics, and markets. He scrutinizes the role of these institutions in our society to show how they've changed and how they've been instrumental in reshaping our relationship with the state and with each other. Tackling important questions about public-goods, the protection of rights, and the growth of laissez-faire, he demonstrates just how vital a role representative politics should play in our lives."--Jacket