

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910784454403321
Autore	Ferguson Gibson
Titolo	Language Planning and Education [[electronic resource]]
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Edinburgh, : Edinburgh University Press, 2006
ISBN	1-322-98079-9 1-280-55387-1 9786610553877 0-7486-2658-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (257 p.)
Collana	Edinburgh textbooks in applied linguistics Language planning and education
Disciplina	370.14
Soggetti	Communication in education Language planning Minorities Multicultural education Education Language / Linguistics Languages & Literatures Philology & Linguistics Language planning - Education
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Series Editors' Preface; Author's Preface; Acknowledgements; Chapter 1: The discipline of language planning: a historical overview; Chapter 2: The practice of language planning: an overview of key concepts; Chapter 3: Educational and political dimensions of bilingual education: the case of the United States; Chapter 4: Minority languages and language revitalisation; Chapter 5: The global spread of English: cause, agency, effects and policy responses; Chapter 6: New Englishes and teaching models: the continuing debate Chapter 7: Language education policy and the medium of instruction issue in post-colonial AfricaDiscussion questions, exercises and further reading; References; Index;

Sommario/riassunto

Offers a topical introduction to a resurgent academic discipline. This book explores the importance of language in issues of migration, globalisation, cultural diversity, nation-building, education and ethnic identity. It describes the emergence and evolution of language planning as an academic discipline.
