

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910785954503321
Autore	Reyns Bradford W. <1979->
Titolo	The anti-social network [[electronic resource] ] : cyberstalking victimization among college students // Bradford W. Reyns
Pubbl/distr/stampa	El Paso, : LFB Scholarly Pub., 2012
ISBN	1-59332-611-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (206 p.)
Collana	Criminal Justice: Recent Scholarship
Disciplina	364.15/8
Soggetti	Cyberstalking Computers and college students
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	CONTENTS; List of Tables; List of Figures; Chapter 1: The Problem of Cyberstalking; Chapter 2: Lifestyle-Routine Activities Theory; Chapter 3: The Theoretical Transition to Cyberspace; Chapter 4: Researching the Problem of Cyberstalking; Chapter 5: The Extent and Nature of Cyberstalking Victimization; Chapter 6: Summary, Implications, and the Future of Cyberstalking Research; Appendices; References; Index
Sommario/riassunto	Cyberstalking is a disturbing reality for many in the United States and across the world. Yet, little is known about the extent or nature of cyberstalking victimization. Reyns's intent is to estimate the extent of victimization, and by utilizing the lifestyle-routine activities perspective to identify risk factors for cyberstalking victimization among college students. Results indicate that certain online behaviors such as online social network usage, friending strangers online, engaging in online forms of deviance, and possessing a propensity toward low self-control increase one's likelihood