

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910786005303321
Autore	Anderson James <1963->
Titolo	The rebel den of Nung Tri Cao [[electronic resource]] : loyalty and identity along the Sino-Vietnamese frontier / / James Anderson
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Seattle, : University of Washington Press Singapore, : In association with NUS Press, c2007
ISBN	0-295-80077-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (295 p.)
Disciplina	959.7/02
Soggetti	Vietnam History 939-1428 China History Song dynasty, 960-1279 Vietnam Boundaries China China Boundaries Vietnam Vietnam Relations China China Relations Vietnam
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 244-264) and index.
Nota di contenuto	The great King Nung Tri Cao : a rebel's role in shaping regional identity along the modern Sino-Vietnamese border -- The legacy of the Chinese imperial tribute system in the south : balancing ritual harmony with frontier stability -- Examples of negotiated autonomy : Sino-Vietnamese relations before the eleventh century -- Gaining legitimacy at the empire's edge : indigenous Tai-speaking communities along the Sino-Vietnamese frontier through the early Song period -- The specter of southern power : Nung Tri Cao's insurrection, court reaction, and the legacy of Nam Viet -- Tempting "treacherous factions" : the manipulation of frontier alliances on the eve of the 1075 Sino-Vietnamese Borderlands War -- Monumental pride : Sino-Vietnamese cross-border commemorations of Nung Tri Cao.