

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910786217903321
Titolo	Table settings : the material culture and social context of dining, AD 1700-1900 // edited by James Symonds
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Oxford ; ; Oakville, Conn. : , : Oxbow Books, , 2010 ©2010
ISBN	1-84217-752-4 1-299-48519-7
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (viii, 181 pages) : illustrations, maps, plans
Altri autori (Persone)	SymondsJames, Ph. D.
Disciplina	641.3009/033
Soggetti	Food habits - History - 18th century Food habits - History - 19th century Dinners and dining - Social aspects - History - 18th century Dinners and dining - Social aspects - History - 19th century Material culture - History - 18th century Material culture - History - 19th century Archaeology and history Social archaeology Social history - 18th century Social history - 19th century
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Includes papers presented at a conference entitled "The table : the material culture and social context of dining in the historical periods," held at University of Sheffield, April 23-25, 2004.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Nota di contenuto	Cover; Acknowledgements; List of Contributors; 1. Introduction (James Symonds); 2. Producing for the Table: A View from the Staffordshire Potteries (David Barker); 3. Trade Catalogues: Elaborations and Virtual Collections (Christine Ball); 4. Chokolatada! Sensing the Past: Recreating a 17th-Century Chocolate Recipe (Annie Gray); 5. Conspicuous Consumption: How to Organize a Feast (Joan Unwin); 6. Dining at Endcliffe Hall (Julie Banham); 7. Privy to the Feast: Eighty to Supper Tonight (Mary C. Beaudry) 8. Separating the Spheres in Early 19th-Century New York City:

Redefining Gender among the Middle Class (Diana diZerega Wall); 9. Domesticity and the Dresser: An Archaeological Perspective from Rural 19th-CenturyPembrokeshire (Harold Mytum); 10. 'We Lived Well at the Hagg': Foodways and Social Belonging in Working-ClassRural Cheshire (Darren Griffith and Eleanor Conlin Casella); 11. The Material Manifestations of 19th-Century Irish America (Stephen A. Brighton); 12 The Ceramic Revolution in Iceland (Gavin Lucas) 13. Gentility: A Historical Context for the Material Culture of the Table in the 'Long 19th Century',1780-1915 (Linda Young); 14. Feeding Workers: Food and Drink in Early Colonial Australia (Susan Lawrence); 15. A Not So Useless Beauty: Economy, Status, Function, and Meaning in the Interpretation of Transfer-Printed Tablewares (Alasdair Brookes); 16. Postcard from Te Awamutu: Eating and Drinking with the Troops in the New Zealand War Front(Alexy Simmons)

---

Sommario/riassunto

Fernand Braudel famously observed that the 'mere smell of cooking can evoke a whole civilization'. The way that food is prepared, served, and eaten reveals a great deal about the structure and workings of any society. It is therefore not surprising that food, and the culturally specific etiquettes and equipment that surround the act of eating have been studied by scholars from a wide range of disciplines. The papers in this volume consider the changes that occurred in Old and New World dining and related culinary activities between the 17th century and the early 20th century.

---